Pakistan Is Under Martial Law

KARACHI (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan resigned tonight and handed over control of Pakistan to Gen. Yahya Khan, commander in chief of the army.

The president said Yaha will run the country with the help of other service chiefs.

Martial law was imposed immediately after the announcement.

Ayub, a general himself, took over the nation 11 years ago.

He said he had done his best to settle differences between opposing groups but "I'm sorry to say that the law and order situation" could not be improved in the country.

Ayub said in his nationwide broadcast: "The administration is paralyzed and everything is being decided on the streets by the job and not by the government."

Yahya appointed himself chief martial law administrator.

Yahya appointed the commander in chief of the air force, Air Marshal Nur Khan; the rear adm. Asam Ahsan, and Gen. Abdul Hamid Khan, army chief of staff, as three deputy martial law administrators.

Ayub said he had acceded to the opposition demand to introduce a federal parliamentary system of government in the country but he could not be a party of anything which made the center weak.

Eleven years ago Ayub took over as martial law administrator in circumstances of similar political chaos.

Ayub announced Feb. 21 he would not seek re-election in the balloting scheduled for next January.

The radio said Ayub is going on three months' leave but did not indicate initially whether the 61-year-old leader would remain in the country.

Ayub told the nation the situation was so grave that problems were being solved in the streets instead of at the negotiating table.

He added that even if the National Assembly met at present it might be a target of bloodshed.

Ayub, who came to power Oct. 27, 1958, 20 days after martial law was previously imposed, said he was sorry people were not coming forward to check mob violence and lawlessness.

He said people lacked moral courage and were afraid of lawless elements.

Opposition to Ayub's rule has erupted in both East and West Pakistan.

There has been widespread mob violence in the countryside around East Pakistan's capital, Dacca.

Seventeen people were reportedly killed in the Char River area of East Pakistan.

In separate incidents over the weekend, the East Pakistan rangers and police opened fire on mobs in the Dacca and Mymensingh areas, killing one person and injuring six others, it was officially reported.

A mob attacked rangers and police who had been sent to prevent looting in the Mymensingh district.

Presidency Of Rotary To Latimer

J.O. Latimer, Jr., 1615 West Seventh was elected president of the Rotary Club of Sedalia on Monday noon at the annual election meeting of the club. Latimer who operates the Latimer Insurance Agency, 210 West Seventh, will succeed Dr. Stanley Fisher when the new Rotary year begins July 1.

Aubrey Case, Sedalia bottler, was elected first vice-president and Donald Barnes, Sedalia attorney, was elected to the second vice-presidency.

Bill Arnold was re-elected for the eighth year as secretary of the club and Charles Barnett will succeed Keith Yount as treasurer. Barnett was elected after Yount asked that the club members not consider him for re-election.

James Edwards, Leroy Iuchs and Wayne Stackhouse were elected new members of the board of directors. They will serve two-year terms. Retiring board members will be E.N. Healey, J.A. Harlan and Dr. A.L. Walter. Still serving for another year will be Dick Esser, Ewing Gibson and Merrill Strombom.

Jake Sumner, past president of the club, was chairman of the balloting committee. Merrill Strombom and Omer West served with him.

Dr. Fisher, president, welcomed the return to attendance of George Routsong, who has been ill for the past several weeks. He announced the club's attendance for the month of February was 86.99 per cent, and thanked the membership for holding the attendance high.

Donald Barnes introduced Lyle K. Potter, manager of the Swift and Company hatchery in that ward was for four months when they tore his house down on Franklin St. The 19th Ward is in the 54th District.

Danforth argues that the 54th District is being deprived of its right to representation by a legislator familiar with its own problems. He said that was the purpose of a Missouri constitutional provision requiring a state representative to have lived in the district where he is elected for at least one year.

The Lucas Avenue address "is a wholly fictitious address for respondent (Banks) and respondent does not now and never had resided at said address," Danforth said.

He said, instead, Banks has lived for many years at 1615

Democrats Launch Drive In Behalf of Candidates

City Democrats kicked off the final push before next Tuesday's election with a first ward meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Mark Twain School.

Speaking on behalf of Larry Englund, candidate for councilman from the first ward, was John McCloskey, attorney.

The meeting was opened by Robert Seelen, who introduced John Vandekamp, city Democratic chairman.

Vandekamp urged those present to assure a large turnout at the polls Tuesday. "Although we are electing only an alderman in each ward and a city assessor, this is a vital and important election, since it affects half of the membership of the City Council," Vandekamp said.

McCloskey said city government needed "new blood, young blood," in introducing Englund. He went on to say that the city faces several problems, among them the need for adequate city buildings and more efficient fire and police protection. He said that until the public votes to pay for increased services, "It is the obligation of the mayor and council to conduct the most efficient government possible, within the bounds of the budget and the available tax dollar."

A call for the return in the next general election of a "vigorous and strong Democratic mayor to furnish the city with the leadership that is so badly needed," was also made by McCloskey.

Englund spoke briefly, stating that although he was not acquainted with all the city problems, he was "interested in the future that this city holds for all of our residents, both young and old."

Also introduced at the meeting were other Democratic ward candidates: Walter Jessee, Democratic candidate for city assessor; and Kenny Pabst, Democratic candidate for election to the Sedalia school board.

City political meetings will continue tonight with a Democratic second ward meeting at 7:30 o'clock at

State Tax Hike Bill Given Nod by House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House advanced a bill today that would increase individual and corporate income tax collections an estimated $72 million a year.

It was called a compromise for a $90 million bill that ran into trouble last week and had to be eliminated.

The measure would set a top levy of 6 per cent on individual income taxes and would double the tax on corporate incomes.

Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, who took over handling of the income tax measure from Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, said it would allow the state to eliminate appropriation committee cuts of 6.2 per cent for all institutions and agencies.

It would allow an increase of $35 million next year in funds for public schools, $25 million for capital improvements at state institutions and leave at least $5 million for financing any new state programs.

The bill was approved as a replacement for the earlier measure on a 90-71 vote. The majority Democrats lost some votes because they refused to accept the amendment of a Democratic colleague, Rep. R. H. Branch of Hillsdale.

As the bill stood it would set a top rate of 6 per cent on net incomes of more than $9,000. Branch tried to add some more brackets with the top 8 per cent on net incomes of more than $30,000. Rabbitt opposed that. He said it would make the bill unacceptable.

Branch countered there it would make the bill fair because those who made the most money would pay a greater tax share. As the bill was offered, he said, the tax would hit hardest those Missourians with low or middle range incomes.

Minority Republicans said they wanted more assurance from the Democrats that the additional money would go to public schools, welfare and higher education rather than "squandered by other state departments."

Without that assurance, Minority Leader R. J. (Bus) King, said, he had to vote against it.

Rabbitt called that "despicable political maneuvering." He said he had told the House repeatedly he wanted the money used for schools primarily but he could not guarantee that other legislators agreed with him.

"Let's be honest with the people," he said just before the bill's advancement. "Let's quit being phony."

As the debate progressed on the bill, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes kept a close check on the proceedings from a legislative office across the corridor from the chamber. He did the same last week during a debate on the first income tax increase bill.

Just before the House started work on the income tax bill, the House Economics Committee approved three tax collection speedup bills that would provide a one-time windfall of about $63 million next year.

It would allow a school principal or superintendent to suspend or expel a student for up to 10 days without a hearing. The bill would become effective as soon as Gov. Warren E. Hearnes signs it.

Now even an incorrigible student must be given a hearing before suspension or expulsion. The bill originated in the House and was sponsored by Reps. Edward Groves and Les Langsford of Springfield.

The Senate also passed 13 other bills, including eight to revamp the probate code. All now go to the House for consideration.

Thieu Is Ready to Talk Terms With Communists

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today his government is prepared to hold private meetings with the National Liberation Front.

The South Vietnamese president imposed no conditions on such meetings and added that he felt the Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, would agree to such talks.

He told a news conference such talks could be part of private discussions in Paris among the delegations to the peace talks there from South Vietnam, North Vietnam, the NLF and the United States.

Thieu told questioners: He remains hopeful of success at the Paris talks.

This is not the time to talk of withdrawing any of the 540,500 American troops in South Vietnam.

His government does not believe a resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam at this time would be proper response to the current Viet Cong offensive.

Thieu expressed satisfaction with the lines of communication established with the new administration of President Nixon. He emphasized that the government-to-government relations during President Johnson's tenure had been quite satisfactory, but he added that relations were better in Paris with Henry Cabot Lodge than with W. Averell Harriman, the former chief U.S. representative at the peace talks.

The president revealed his willingness to talk with the Viet Cong directly when he was asked about reports that private talks had already taken place in Paris.

"I can't say they have started," Thieu said, "but we are working on it and we are hopeful."

Would these talks involve the Front, he was asked.

"We are ready to have private talks with the National Liberation Front if they like," he replied. "There are many things we cannot decide at the conference table which we can discuss quite frankly in private."

Reds Remain Silent

PARIS (AP) — A spokesman for the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front said today the front would have no immediate comment on South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's offer to hold private talks with the front on the sidelines of the Paris peace conference.

Communist Food Supply Confiscated by Marines

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines sweeping along the Laotian frontier have made the allies' second biggest rice haul of the war, enough to feed 8,000 North Vietnamese troops for three months, military spokesmen said today.

U.S. headquarters said the Marines of the 3rd Regiment, participating in Operation Maine Crag, found 600 tons of rice about 11 miles south of the abandoned Khe Sanh combat base. Officers said the seizure undoubtedly would affect the enemy's ability to sustain an offensive in the northwest corner of South Vietnam. Earlier this week a significant North Vietnamese buildup had been reported in Laos, three miles across the border.

Some 3,500 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops are participating in Operation Maine Crag. Farther south, 2,000 paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division in Operation Massachusetts Striker are sweeping through the A Shau Valley, the biggest North Vietnamese base and staging area in South Vietnam.

Spokesmen said both operations have accounted for more than 100 enemy dead in snail, sporadic fights, while U.S. casualties so far are 33 killed and 117 wounded.

Contact has been only sporadic, but headquarters said the main objective of both sweeps is to find and destroy enemy food and war material that could be used in attacks on towns in the 1st Military Corps area, including Quang Tri City, Hue and Da Nang.

The Viet Cong spring offensive entered its 31st day today with about 25 rocket and mortar attacks reported during the night. U.S. Headquarters said total military casualties and damage were light.

Ground fighting was reported Monday in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon and along the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang.

In four scattered fights in the Delta, U.S. 9th Division infantrymen and South Vietnamese forces reported 77 Viet Cong killed. Two Americans were wounded while four South Vietnamese were killed and 17 were wounded.

South Vietnamese units and air strikes kill 79 enemy in two fights near the provincial capital of Quang Ngai, about 80 miles south of Da Nang, after the town was shelled.

Board at Smithton Approves Levy Hike

By RALPH JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

SMITHTON — Facing a financial problem that is plaguing most school districts, the board of the Smithton school district Monday night approved a $1 increase in the school tax levy for the coming year.

With the approval of a wide majority of the patrons present, the board decided to place a levy of $3.85 per $100 assessed valuation on the ballot for approval in the April 1 election.

The levy this year is $2.85, which will not provide sufficient income to give the district the necessary balance at the end of the school year, the board says. This balance is normally used to open school at the beginning of the term in the fall, John Sneed, Jr., board president, explained.

Some 35 patrons attended the meeting, which had been called to explain the reasons for the needed levy hike, and to obtain the views of school patrons on the matter. On a show of hands, 27 of the patrons present voted their approval. The board members and school officials did not vote, as they had indicated their approval by making the proposal under study. Three of the patrons present abstained, indicating they would study the proposal further.

Sneed reiterated several reasons for the requested levy hike: a misunderstanding in the assessed valuation of the property within the school district last year, a gradual diminishing of federal funds supporting various Title programs, teacher salary increases, increases in

Danforth Forces Decision On Residence Provisions

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth has asked the state Supreme Court to decide for the first time on the residency requirements of a member of the Missouri Legislature.

Danforth filed suit Monday seeking the ouster of Rep. J.B. "Jet" Banks, D-St. Louis, from his 54th District seat in the House.

The newly-elected Danforth, a Republican, is seeking to circumvent a long-standing premise that the legislature shall be the sole judge of the qualifications of its own members.

In doing so, he drew on a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision involving a Georgia legislator, Julian Bond. The high court ruled in that case when a state constitutional provision making the legislature its own judge conflicts with federal constitutional rights, the state charter provision must yield.

Danforth said Monday that Banks does not live in the 54th District and he never has. "His long time residence appears to be in Richmond Heights," he said. That is a St. Louis suburb.

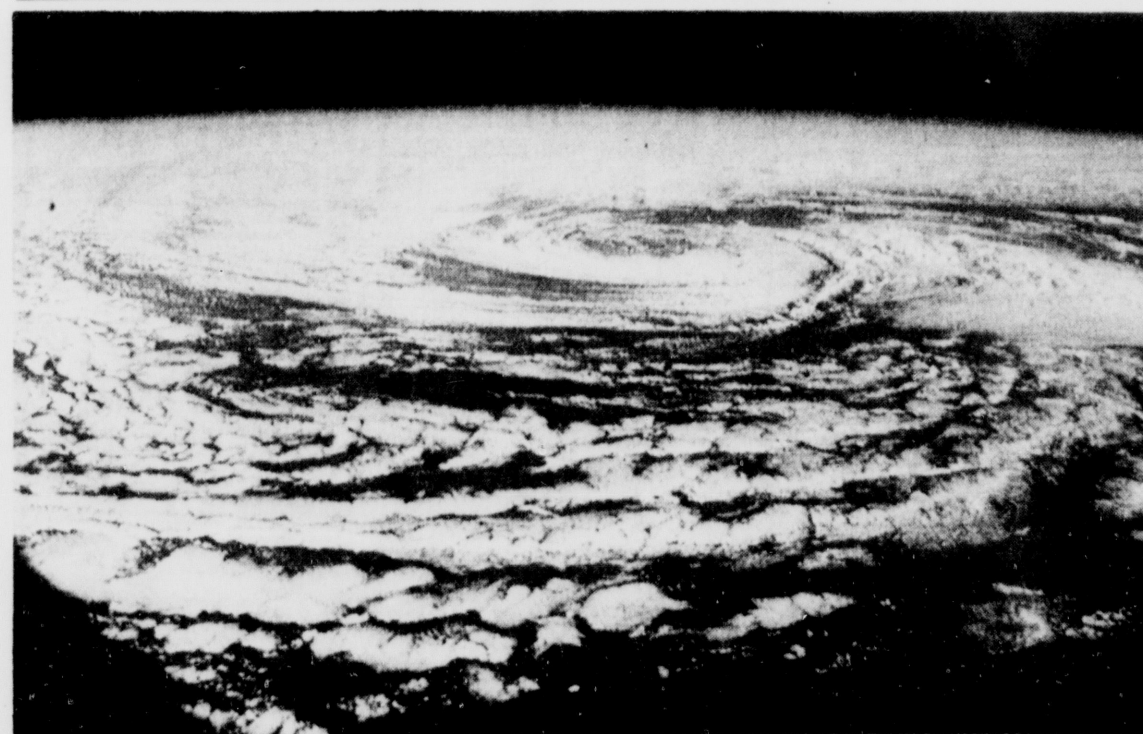

"He did not even register to vote from an address within the 54th District until May 1968, which was after he had filed as a candidate from the district," Danforth claimed.

But Banks, a Negro elected to the seat previously occupied by now Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, also a Negro, told newsmen he has lived at the address in question—3129 Lucas Ave., St. Louis—for the past 15-20 years.

He said he has never voted in any other ward but the 19th and the only time he didn't live

A Strange Land—Conclusion

Black Is Anything But Beautiful to Africans

By ROBERT COCHNAR
NEA Staff Correspondent

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — (NEA) — Albert Ramokaka is 32 years old. He lives in Soweto, a Bantu (black only) township on the outskirts of Johannesburg, and for two hours each day he travels to the city and his job.

He is a floor cleaner at a department store and for his 12 hours of work each day he receives about $2.

Ramokaka carries with him a reference book which tells every white who wishes to see it that he is permitted to travel and work within a "white area." But his reference book can be withdrawn at any time and he can be "endorsed out" of Johannesburg.

He would therefore lose his job. Any Bantu without a job can be moved hundreds of miles away, to his "homeland," which very likely he has never seen.

Albert Ramokaka cannot change his job without official permission. He cannot vote. He cannot own property. He cannot visit the Johannesburg Zoo except on Bantu Days, nor can he see a film in a downtown theater.

If he is injured on the street, he cannot be treated until a Bantu ambulance arrives. Although there are no signs forbidding entry, he knows he cannot eat in most Jo'burg restaurants, nor can he check in at a city hotel.

He is essentially illiterate, having had only four years of education. More would have cost his parents' considerable money (education for whites is free).

He is married but has not seen his wife for 18 months. She lives on a Bantu Reserve, many miles away from Jo'burg. There is no provision in his reference book to visit Soweto or Johannesburg.

Albert Ramokaka's situation is not unusual. He is a Bantu, an African, a native, a nonwhite, a Kaffir. It is his lot and he must accept it, as do 12.7 million of his brothers.

Ramokaka's home, Sweto, contains some 750,000 people. Few government-owned houses have electricity and the crime rate is among the highest in the world. Twenty murders on a single weekend are commonplace.

His cousin, George, works in the Jo'burg gold mines for about 12 cents an hour. But he also receives board, lodging and medical treatment. George, from the Reserves, was contracted by a white recruiter to work in the mines for a year.

However, the South African government plans to change all this, it says. The concept is, of course, "separate development" or Apartheid. The plan is to establish eight "Bantustans" or black-ruled states within South Africa where Africans will possess the rights of which they have been deprived in white areas.

The Bantustans are to comprise some 13 per cent of the land area of the country. The white South Africans, 20 per cent of the population, will continue to occupy the remaining 87 per cent.

Although but one Bantustan, the Transkei, has been established, the government has already promulgated the fiction that black and white states already exist and that Africans in "white areas" are merely "temporary sojourners," foreigners, even, and that naturally they ought not possess the same rights as citizens.

The big hitch in the logic is that the economy rests on black backs and the enforced cheap labor. (It is a criminal offense not to report for work.) If Africans were indeed to control their own destinies in their own states, the labor supply in the "white areas" would wither away.

And so Albert Ramokaka, who may well be capable of work more complex than pushing a broom, continues to commute his two hours a day in shabby, black-only buses and to exist in quiet desperation.

To most black Africans, "hope" is an unfamiliar word.

Tricia Nixon, 23, who will be Queen of the International Azalea Festival April 23-27 at Norfolk, Va., was guest of honor at a reception in advance of the festival in Washington. Tricia, at a brief news conference, said that she had been "putting the pressure on" her father to attend her coronation April 26, but told reporters "you know how busy Presidents are." (UPI)

'Ice Farmer' Ends 40-Year Career

GREENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Ice farming in the Pocono Mountains became history when Max E. Hazelton, 60, hung up his pick after 40 years. His last ice crop—125 tons of 100-pound cakes—was packed in a stone ice house to be sold in varying sizes in the summer. Tons of ice once were shipped out in winter by large firms for immediate use or storage.

Sacred Heart Science Fair Held

Sacred Heart's first Science Fair was held Sunday in the school cafeteria.

Each student enrolled in a science course was required to enter a project. Eighty-three projects were entered by a total of 96 students, as some students worked together on a project.

Projects could be entered from any one of 17 fields of science and were judged according to: knowledge achieved, skill, clarity, scientific method, and explanation.

The judges were: Drs. Karl Gonser, D. Stanley Fisher, Tom Hopkins, D.R. Edwards, and Donald Eldenburg, Don L. King, Mrs. Delmar Gann, David Rouchka, Thomas Crim, Carl Gramlich, Gerhardt Jaeger, C.A. Ledgerwood, Wendell Rayford, and Jammers Doering.

Ratings of superior, excellent, good, and satisfactory were given.

Those receiving superior ratings were: Theresa Herrick, Mary Ellen Fischer, Ed Gonser, Jo Ann Simon, Jerry Visentine, Michael Wolf and Charles Mergen.

Excellent ratings were awarded to: Vicki Humphries, Debbie Felten, Stanley Jarvis, John Fanghor, Karen Huhman, David Fisher, Marcia Barr, Mary Crim, Maureen Melvin, Jean Eschbacher, John Stone, Ted Aggeler, Sandra Roucha, Lori Smith, Janet Twenter, Rita Zimmerschied, Robert Lindsey, Tom Racunas, Tom Duffield, Sandy Grotzinger, Jo Ann Hoffman, Jerri Oehrke, Carol Cooney, Teresa Hogan, Kate Hurley, John Coxon, Janet Gonser, Debbie Eckhoff, Carol Gerke, Roger Schuber, Richard Dean, Jr., Margaret Swords, Anna Baschke, Dale Kruse, and David Fisher.

Ocelot is Killed By Tranquilizer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A wandering ocelot, prowling Philadelphia suburbs for no one knows how long, died Sunday after being tranquilized with a dart gun.

The 23-pound, yellow and black cat, covered with soot and grime, was surprised in a patio-habitat on a Delaware County estate by a 65-year-old caretaker who telephoned police.

A sergeant dropped the ocelot with a tranquilizer dart, then rushed the animal to a local veterinarian. Dr. George Huggler said the tranquilizer probably was too much for the ocelot.

Huggler said he thought the animal had fled domestication long ago or never had been a pet.

Ann Landers

No Medals Given To Mistaken Girls

Dear Ann Landers: Who do you pin orchids on the vixens without knowing the facts? If you could see some of those white flower girls you'd know they couldn't give it away. Why not use your valuable newspaper space to praise the sought-after, sexy girl who is constantly chased by men and is sometimes caught?

I'm a woman in my middle forties who has worked ten years with young girls in a steno pool. I see the goody-goody types in their little white shirt-waist blouses and oxfords. SO smug and proud of their chastity, as if they had a choice. They make me sick.

Only last Friday a darling little redhead, just 21, sobbed out her story in the ladies' room. Lucy had been jilted by an executive after six months of steady courtship. They had been intimate and she was counting on marriage. It was the fourth time she'd had this terrible thing happen to her. Girls like Lucy need Ann Landers to tell them they aren't ALL bad. Give them encouragement, not a putdown. I've been reading your silly column for twelve years and I think you are a perfect fool. — Mamma Leone.

Dear Mamma: Thanks for the compliment, but nobody's perfect.

I don't happen to have any good conduct medals lying around for girls who think the bedroom is a shortcut to the altar. Moreover, a girl who makes the same mistake four times is what I call (in polite language) a non-learner.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I both love to entertain but because of a problem we've had recently I've told him, "No more parties." He is furious and insists there must be a solution.

We like to give small dinners — five or six couples. We select guests who have something in common and will make for stimulating conversation. Our last three parties have been flops because the invited guests brought unexpected friends or relatives. I ran out of chairs, silverware and food. The invited guests didn't enjoy themselves because the uninvited ones took over. Our last party was ruined when a couple brought their teen-age daughter who in turn brought two teen-age boys.

My husband says I must tell the uninvited guests at the door that they cannot come in. I simply couldn't do it. Do you know of a civilized solution? — Dayton.

Dear Day: All hostesses have this problem occasionally, but you seem to be afflicted with it regularly. My advice is to make it abundantly clear when you issue an invitation, whether by mail or phone, that all guests are being asked not to bring any extras because of space problems.

Anyone who drags along an extra after being warned in advance, deserves to be knocked off your list permanently.

Confidential to Must Be Made Of Wood: Fake it, Sister. Since you know how important it is to him and he tries his darndest, put on as good a performance as possible. This is noble duplicity. It takes nothing from you and it can do wonders for your marriage.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents ... if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

4-H Notes

OTTERVILLE — The march meeting of the Otterville 4-H Club was held at the I.O.O.F. Hall with 30 members present.

Pledges were led by Rhonda Seifert and Rene Watring. Roll call was answered with "Why I joined 4-H."

Year pins were given out to those not present at the last meeting. Bobby Bremer gave a project report.

Committee members, Joyce Hayes, Tammy and Jimmy Cooper and David Wallenburn will meet with the Rev. W. F. Haley to make arrangements for 4-H Sunday, which will be observed the Sunday following Mother's Day.

The group voted to present Mr. William Stuesse, Cooper County conservation agent, with a retirement gift.

Program books will be handed out at the next meeting.

Sales, Income Taxes Used More By States Seeking New Revenue

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Associated Press Writer

State Legislatures in session throughout the nation, searching for ways to balance steadily rising budgets, are turning chiefly to new or higher income and sales taxes.

These two taxes figure in the revenue-raising plans of 20 states, a national survey by the Associated Press showed today. Four states are considering starting a state income tax, seven are considering increases, two may adopt a state sales tax and seven are considering increases.

Four states are considering increases in cigarette taxes, three in gasoline taxes, two in liquor taxes.

And in some capitals, tax trends still haven't developed. Legislatures are meeting, or will meet later this year, in 47 states.

The survey showed that tax proposals were directed, in descending order of frequency, at personal income, sales, cigarettes, corporation income, gasoline, liquor, oil and gas production, various licenses, mining and personal property.

Forty-four states already have sales taxes, 38 personal income taxes and 40 corporate income taxes.

The biggest user of the state tax dollar is education, well ahead of welfare and highways.

A personal income tax has been formally proposed in Pennsylvania and Washington State, and is under study in Illinois. A tax on personal and corporate incomes has been suggested in Maine.

Increases in income taxes have been proposed in Maryland, Indiana, North Dakota, Missouri, Georgia, New Mexico and Colorado.

Oregon and Vermont may adopt sales taxes. Boosts in that tax have been proposed in Maryland, Indiana, New York, Utah, North Dakota, South Carolina and Georgia.

Among the handful of states trying to hold the line on state taxation is California.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has pledged that there will be no new taxes this year and plans to propose that much of an anticipated $200 million surplus be used for income tax cuts.

Arizona's legislature, committed to holding the line on taxes, is studying a bond issue or some other means of financing needed university buildings and state offices.

In advance of the April session, Gov. Claude Kirk and leaders of the Florida legislature have come out for a line-holding budget despite record increases in funds sought by state agencies. A special session there in 1968 raised taxes by $228 million a year, mostly for schools.

The speaker of Tennessee's Senate, Frank C. Gorrell, said: "It will be virtually impossible to get a tax increase through this legislature." But the Tennessee Education Association has waged an intensive drive for more money for schools, and that would require a substantial tax hike.

Indiana's legislative session ended recently with legislators unable to agree on increases in sales and income taxes. Also victims of a deadlock between the state's Senate and House were proposed increases in liquor and cigarette taxes. A jump from six to eight cents a gallon in state tax for diesel fuel and gasoline plus increases in motor vehicles fees did win approval from the legislators.

Ohio's Gov. James A. Rhodes dropped his six-year policy of no new taxes and gave his approval to a gross receipts tax to finance a vocational-technical education program. The governor has refused to allot any more funds for welfare. Instead, he has concentrated on the vocational-technical program in the belief it will reduce welfare rolls.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has proposed to balance state books by raising the sales tax from two to three cents on the dollar and cutting state expenditures by 5 per cent across the board.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania offered eight alternative tax plans. But he indicated his preference for a 3 per cent tax on total income. Two previous governors suggested an income tax for Pennsylvania, but it didn't get anywhere.

The new governor of Illinois, Richard B. Ogilvie, said the state is on the brink of bankruptcy. He asked departments to slash spending as much as 10 per cent and said revenue must be increased, but he won't have his tax program ready until about April 1. An income tax proposal is under study.

Chances of a tobacco tax have been rated good in North Carolina, the largest tobacco producer and the only state which doesn't have such a levy.

A special study commission has asked Alabama's legislature to raise at least $55 million a year for schools.

A group of tax protesters appeared recently before Utah's legislature with a petition bearing 15,000 signatures. A spokesman vowed that more petitions would be brought in "by the truckload, if necessary."

Utah Gov. Calvin L. Rampton has recommended increases in sales and cigarette taxes and a graduated tax on metal mining.

Differing bills aimed at wiping out the $18 million collected annually from personal property taxes have been approved by the House and Senate in North Dakota. A compromise must be worked out. The lost revenue would be made up by increasing income taxes on individuals, businesses and corporations and by broadening the 3 per cent sales tax to cover liquor, oleomargarine and tobacco products.

The new governor of Rhode Island, Frank R. Licht, proposed a tax on earnings from investments and savings.

Arch A. Moore Jr., the new governor of West Virginia, has asked legislators to raise about $41 million by suspending for one year exemptions under the consumers' sales tax law. Those provisions permit tax-free purchases of goods and services used in manufacturing, contracting, mining and some other activities.

Gov. Harold LeVander of Minnesota has suggested boosts in taxes on cigarettes and liquor and a general increase in state licenses and fees which have not been raised in 10 years.

Gov. Robert McNair has asked for increases in the sales, cigarette and beer taxes in South Carolina.

Gov. Tom McCall has recommended that a 3 per cent sales tax be put on the ballot at a referendum in Oregon. The income would be used to reduce property taxes about 30 per cent.

Wyoming's Gov. Stan Hathaway proposed a 1 per cent tax on the gross production of oil, gasoline and other minerals.

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox has requested more sales, corporate income, gasoline and cigarette taxes, plus a revision in personal income taxes that would bring in more money.

The administration of Gov. Deane C. Davis in Vermont has suggested a 4 per cent general sales tax that would apply to all purchases except prescription drugs, farm feed, fertilizer and raw materials used in industrial production. Davis denied requests for new programs and froze new jobs in state government except in emergencies.

In Colorado, Gov. John A. Love wants a higher state income tax to provide $30 million, primarily for schools.

Not Happy at All

With the situation not so well in hand, the father as well as the barber find that giving a haircut to 13-month-old Boyd Johnson is quite a task. The youngster, even though this is his third trip to the barber, still doesn't feel that all the torture is necessary. (UPI)

Fail to Find Basis For Big Four Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says preliminary negotiations have failed so far to produce the necessary groundwork for a Big Four meeting on the explosive Middle East situation.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Monday "insufficient consensus" among the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France is preventing a four-way meeting.

At the same time, however, some officials see progress in the bilateral talks American diplomats have been holding with their Soviet, French and British counterparts in an effort to find a way to end the near-war between Israel and the Arab countries.

They say the Soviets and French now agree that Israel's withdrawal from the territory it captured in the six-day war in 1967 need not mean complete evacuation and that there can be some border adjustments where earlier boundaries did not make sense.

The United States agreed reluctantly in February to hold the four-power meeting suggested by the French, but insisted on two-way talks among the four countries first to see if a full conference would be fruitful.

American officials were doubtful of the value of the four-power talks because they felt only the United States and the Soviet Union were in a position to influence the two sides in the Middle East.

The Americans suspect the Paris proposal was an attempt to restore French influence in the area.

American officials hoped the recent Washington visit of Israeli Foreign Minister Abba

Eban would result in the forming of a position the United States can represent at the proposed four-power gathering. The hope did not materialize.

The Eban visit put American differences with Israel into sharp focus. It compelled Washington officials to make new efforts to keep the dialogue open with the Soviets, on the one hand, and to persuade Israel that the four-power conference will not jeopardize its interest, on the other.

Israel, Eban stressed, wants a settlement agreed upon by the two sides, considering that the only practical road to peace.

Eban minimized the danger of a new war, insisting there will be none. American officials are less certain.

One thing Eban made crystal clear: The Soviet plan suggesting a "phased" withdrawal of Israeli forces from captured Arab land is out of the question. What Eban did not say—but implied—was Israeli suspicion that the United States is on the verge of buying the Soviet's idea.

The belief is growing in Washington diplomatic circles that recent talks between high American officials and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin may result in an understanding between the two superpowers before the United States and Israel or the Soviets and Arabs can agree.

Letter Accepted As Woman's Will

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A letter written by a Fort Worth mother aboard a doomed plane minutes before it crashed was accepted by a judge Monday as her last will.

Probate Judge William T. McGee directed that the letter, which was found in the plane's wreckage, served as a guide in disposing of the personal property of Mrs. Kathryn Brown.

Mrs. Brown died March 7 with her husband and 19-year old daughter, Kathy, when the small plane in which they were riding crashed during a storm on a small island in Lake Travis near Austin.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Alice E. Brown

LAMONTE — Mrs. Alice E. Brown, 83, Route 2, died at the Wallace Retirement Home at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday. She had been a resident of the retirement home since February, 1968.

Mrs. Brown was born near Dodge City, Kan., March 18, 1886, the daughter of the late James and Mary Adams Hughes. The family came to Pettis County when Mrs. Brown was 10 years old, and she lived practically all of her life in LaMonte and Green Ridge.

She was married at Sedalia, Jan. 24, 1906, to Emmett R. Brown.

She was preceded in death by six sisters, two brothers, and a daughter, Mrs. Roy (Eva) Johnson, in 1961.

Mrs. Brown was a member of the LaMonte Methodist Church. She is survived by her husband; one son, George R. Brown, 501 East 15th; two daughters, Mrs. Raymond (Mary) Williams, LaMonte; Mrs. David (Ruth) Edwards, Route 3, Sedalia; one sister, Mrs. Mamie Johnson, Seattle, Wash.; nine grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Thursday, with the Rev. J. R. Shipman, pastor of the LaMonte Methodist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home, where the family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

The family suggests memorials be made to the LaMonte Methodist Church.

Elizabeth Settles

LAMONTE — Elizabeth Settles, 81, died at 10 p.m. Monday at Bothwell Hospital.

She was born Mar. 8, 1888, the daughter of Thomas and Emma Gwinn Settles.

She spent her entire life in the LaMonte community until years ago, when she went to the Buena Vista Nursing Home.

Surviving is a brother, Thomas Settles, Kansas City.

Preceding her in death were two brothers, Audsley and Will, and two sisters, Mrs. Belle Delapp and Mrs. Beulah Matthews.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Jack R. Shipman officiating.

Burial will be in LaMonte Cemetery.

Lester Rice

LONGVIEW, WASH. — Lester Rice, a former Sedalian, died Monday at Longview, Wash.

He was born Nov. 17, 1901, in Pettis County, the son of the late John Rice and Malinda Houchens. He was married Sept. 8, 1951, to Rowena Patterson.

Mr. Rice had formerly worked at the Katy and the Missouri Pacific Shops as a painter.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church, Longview.

Surviving him are his wife; a sister, Mrs. Lloyd Fulton, 1500 South Harrison, and a niece, Mrs. James Edward Land, Independence.

Preceding him in death were his parents and a twin brother who died at birth.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at Longview.

Burial will be in Longview.

At the clerk Jim Green, Pettis County clerk, examined the form sent from his office early in 1968, with a figure that does not match his actual figures on the books, and found the form did not contain his signature. He said he did not recognize the handwriting.

This year, for figuring the proposed budget, Green had signed the form and the figures match with those on his books, thus there is no error in the valuation being used to estimate the budget for next school year.

In standard procedure, assessments for the entire county are made in the office of Jerry Trotter, county assessor, then the books are turned over to the county clerk. The correct figures are shown in his books, according to Trotter, indicating that there was no error in the assessor's office.

Total valuation being used this year adds up to $3,805,234, including all parts of Pettis, Morgan and Cooper Counties included in the Smithton school district. Even with state and federal aid and at the present $2.85 levy, income would not meet the necessary $348,105.43 in the proposed budget. A $1 increase in the school levy would not give the necessary cushion, but this can be reached in about three years with the increase, and the district's financial problems could be eased, Sneed said.

Sneed pointed out that while there was an error in valuation, other factors he mentioned, such as salary increases and increased operating expenses, constitute the main reasons for the requested tax levy increase.

Acting superintendent Cloyd Shea said that in estimating the proposed budget, he and members of the board consulted several times with Randall Tedlock, director of school finances for the State Department of Education, Jefferson City, and that estimates have been held at an absolute minimum.

Sneed urged all present to explain the need for the increase to other patrons of the district. "We only hope that the patrons present will contact one of the board members, or one of you people, for detailed information if you have any doubt as to the need for the levy increase."

COLBERT, Okla. (AP) — Olie Weger didn't get his foot race, but he turned out to be a winner after all.

Last week the 67-year-old Weger tied with incumbent W. W. Brockert, 68, in the election for a seat on the Colbert City Council. Each received 118 votes.

Weger proposed a foot race to decide the winner, but the Bryan County Election Board pointed out that the law says such situations must be settled with a lottery.

Magistrate Court

Elizah Cline, 212 East St. Louis, and Willie Francis, Jr., 412 North Washington, charged with robbery in the first degree with a dangerous and deadly weapon, were arraigned in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning and their preliminary hearing date was set for April 16. Both were returned to jail after failing to meet a bond of $6,000 each.

They are charged with taking $25 at gunpoint from Wright Rank near Main and Osage last Friday night.

Richard Cramer and George H. Glover, charged with passing bogus checks, waived their right to a preliminary hearing and the cases were bound over to Circuit Court for trial. Both were returned to jail after failing to meet a $1,000 bond each.

Accidents

A 1965 Ford truck being driven east on Broadway by Leroy T. Fischer, Stover, and a 1963 Pontiac being driven the same direction by Emil R. Gerlach, Charles City, Iowa, collided at West Broadway and Ruth Ann Drive at 6:07 p.m. Monday.

The right front of the truck and the front and rear of the car were damaged.

A two-car accident occurred at the intersection of Broadway and Grand at 2:07 p.m. Monday.

Involved were a 1965 Ford driven south on Grand by Ira Albert Leiter, 71, 637 East 16th, and a 1968 Chrysler driven west on Broadway by Clifford J. Danielson, 47, 1324 West Fifth.

The left rear of the Ford and the left front of the Chrysler were damaged in the accident.

The 100 block of South Osage was the scene of a two-car accident at 11:58 a.m. Monday.

Involved were a 1966 Ford driven west in the alley crossing Osage by Hayden Clark Matheny, 58, 1530 East Sixth, and a 1965 Buick driven north on Osage by Harvey Henry Brimmer, 72, 900 South Barrett.

The right fronts of both vehicles were damaged.

Board

operating expenses, minimum wage laws affecting employees other than teachers, the need for a part-time librarian and half-time secretary for the principal.

How the error in assessed valuation in the district occurred remains unanswered, but the error did lead to a deficit of some $12,000 in the normal closing balance at the end of the current school year.

Sneed said, This balance of about $30,000 is used to open the new school year.

In explanation, the school figures its budget for the year based on the assessed valuation of property within the district. If the budget cannot be met with income from the current levy, then the levy must be raised or school services reduced. Last year, when the current budget was figured, the board assumed they had some $4 million in assessed valuation to work from. Too late to change the budget, the board discovered an error of some $450,000 in valuation had been made, thus they had to cut into the left-over cushion to finish this year.

At the meeting Jim Green, Pettis County clerk, examined the form sent from his office early in 1968, with a figure that does not match his actual figures on the books, and found the form did not contain his signature. He said he did not recognize the handwriting.

Missile Defense Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials hoped today that talks with President Nixon have resolved any doubts held by Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau about the necessity of a U.S. missile defense system.

Trudeau arrived Monday to discuss the Nixon-proposed anti-ballistic missile—ABM—program reportedly undecided about whether to back the system. He leaves for Ottawa tonight after more discussions with American leaders.

No matter what Trudeau decides, he is certain to face intensive questioning on the matter by his parliamentary opposition.

Last week critics expressed fear that U.S. defensive missile installations near the border would cause radioactive fallout over Canadian territory if they ever had to be used.

Trudeau rejected proposals that he seek to have projected missile sites in North Dakota and Montana moved further south. He said he was interested in finding out Nixon's rationale for deciding to install the system and in determining whether it would be provocative or would contribute to world peace.

Aides disclosed that the ABM issue was among topics covered when Nixon and Trudeau met privately Monday for 90 minutes and later joined in a 45-minute session with other officials in the White House Cabinet Room.

The issue also figured in a follow-up meeting Trudeau held with Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the State Department.

Not all of the prime minister's visit was taken up with the somber business of diplomacy. At a white tie dinner Monday night, Nixon entertained his first official foreign guest with talk about skin diving, one of Trudeau's favorite recreations.

In a toast, Trudeau invited the President to visit Canada and Nixon indicated he would like to take up the invitation.

'Bronson' TV Debut A Bomb

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Then Came Bronson," NBC's two-hour "World Premiere" broadcast Monday night presents one of this season's great mysteries.

Not the program, which seemed pretty formless and defied categorization. But the network's decision to turn it into a weekly series for next season.

The program, shot as a pilot, suffered acutely from the problem found in so many of the "World Premiere" shows—too little plot and too much time to fill.

The idea for the series is that Bronson is a young San Francisco newspaper reporter who, shaken by the suicide of a friend, quits his job to roam the country and "find himself."

With the motorcycle inherited from his dead buddy he starts out. That's the beginning of the pilot and the future format—a different place and a new adventure every week. After all, that worked for "Route 66" for several seasons.

First thing Bronson encountered was a beautiful girl in a bridal costume on the Pacific shores tossing gown, veil, corsage into the waves.

Well, of course the two distressed people joined forces—on a motorcycle built for one. After that the most exciting element in the rambling, leisurely sequences that followed was the scenery. The show was filmed on location in some stunning country.

Oh, the boy and girl quarreled a bit. He won a motorcycle hill-climbing contest. Somebody stole that machine and rode it into a river. He skidded on an oil slick and landed in a hospital. There were no heavies, no fights, but by the end of two hours the girl somehow found herself and went home—presumably to the bridegroom she had left waiting at the altar. And our hero rode grimly off to next season's adventures.

Michael Parks in the title role is an attractive young actor but was called upon to do little more than look thoughtful, speak—often inaudibly—and start the motorcycle.

The pace of the pilot is indicated by the fact that the runaway bride was encountered within the first five minutes of the show and neither the hero nor the audience knew even her name until almost two hours later.

The dialogue was as predictable as it was laconic.

The girl gazed soulfully at the boy and suddenly murmured "Thank you."

"What for?" Bronson asked. "Just for being you," she said.

At another sparkling moment she asked "What about us?" "There is no us," he replied. "There is you and there is me."

Four From State Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest Defense Department casualty list contains the names of 99 servicemen, including four from Missouri, who were killed in action in the Vietnam War.

The two Army men were Spec. 4. Terry R. Monia of Bloomdale and Spec. 4 William W. Sherman of Oak Grove.

The two Marines were Cpl. Charles E. Wheeler of Milan and Pfc. Larry W. Knox of Harrisonville.

Scientists Claim Water, Perhaps Life, on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists studying light reflected from Mars report "definite and conclusive" evidence of water in the red planet's atmosphere, indicating the possibility of life.

Mars is so dry, however, that only the driest deserts of Earth or peaks like Mt. Everest compare.

Dr. Ronald Schorn of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said he is convinced after five years' observation there is enough water in Mars' atmosphere to fill a lake a mile wide, a mile deep and a mile long.

"If you took all the water we found, and laid it out on the planet, it would be only one-1,000th of an inch thick," he said Monday night. "It still may not be a great place to live but there's a chance of life there."

Schorn and Steven Little of the University of Texas made their observations through the 86-inch telescope at McDonald Observatory at Fort Davis, Tex.

Schorn said the scientists photographed the spectrum of Mars' atmosphere with infrared film. The spectrograph photo showed the presence of water in the planet's cloud cover, he said.

"There's hardly a place on earth with that low a humidity reading," he said. "The only place I could think of is the top of Mt. Everest. There's more water on Earth's deserts than on Mars."

So far, there is no way to measure whether some portions of Mars have more water than others, he said. But with a new 107-inch telescope now in use, the scientists expect to look at smaller regions of the planet.

"We'll be able to see if this is localized—whether some areas of Mars are more capable of sustaining life than others," the astronomer predicted.

Schorn said photographs by the Mariner spacecraft now approaching Mars will help to solve that question.

Since 1948 scientists have had evidence that the planet's white polar caps, which change size with the seasons, consist of ice an inch or two thick. Atmospheric water vapor has been thought possible but never before detected spectroscopically.

Astronomers have speculated that most of the atmosphere is inert nitrogen.

Scientists hold Mars as the likeliest place in our solar system apart from Earth to sustain life. The other planets present too hostile an environment.

Says New Objective Is Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the government's war on Narcotics trafficking says federal agents have spent too much time in the past "chasing addict-pushers down the streets" and not enough pursuing the major distributors of illicit drugs.

The "stated approach" was to cut off drugs at their source, said John E. Ingersoll, head of the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. But, he added, "I don't think it was implemented."

"What they said they were doing and what they were actually doing were often two very different things," Ingersoll said in an interview.

"They were chasing addict-pushers down the streets at the same time they were trying to reach the higher echelons of traffic. There were too many low level arrests being made."

Ingersoll, a former police chief and Justice Department official, took command last August of the radically shaken U. S. effort to combat increasing traffic in narcotics and drugs. The bureau he heads was created by merging the Treasury Department's Narcotics Bureau with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Bureau of Drug Abuse.

"We're focusing our efforts on the major traffickers—in the case of drugs, the operators of clandestine laboratories and the major distributors," he said.

"In the case of the importation of hard narcotics and marijuana we are focusing our attention on as high a level of trafficking within the country as we can get, plus we're going to make a greater effort overseas, to reduce or eliminate the source of these narcotics."

Asked whether the Mafia was responsible for Narcotics traffic, Ingersoll said "I don't think there is any question that their money is involved." But he said "we don't have evidence that they're involved" in the distribution of drugs like LSD.

Scales Fall From Prince's Eyes

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — For years Prince Norodom Sihanouk heaped praise on the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, lauding their "rightful struggle" in Vietnam. Lately he has turned against them, apparently because he feels they will gobble up Cambodia.

An increasingly ominous intrusion of the VC-Hanoi forces into Cambodia is one factor which seems to be making the 46-year-old ruler more friendly toward Washington. A cordial exchange of letters between Sihanouk and President Nixon and the quick release of four American prisoners have set the tone.

At a news conference this month, Sihanouk dramatically announced that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are encamped on vast stretches of eastern Cambodia.

More surprisingly he openly expressed wonderment as to why the Americans didn't bomb them.

Sihanouk said the infiltrators "represent an immediate and long term danger" for Cambodia. Once and for all, the prince cleared away any lingering doubt about repeated U.S. assertions that Communist-led forces operate in considerable numbers from his soil.

There was no immediate reaction from the North Vietnamese, who have an embassy here, and from the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, which has one of its major diplomatic establishments here. But day to day relations between Cambodians and the Vietnamese have markedly chilled in recent months.

Longtime observers here say Sihanouk has brought into the open a struggle for his independence once the shooting war stops in Vietnam. Fears are expressed that the Hanoi-led Vietnamese are so well entrenched that they will never leave on their own.

Sihanouk has had continuing trouble with the Thais, but his main concern now is with the Viet Cong, the North Vietnamese and even the Pathet Lao who operate in Laos.

Pointing to a map at his news conference, Sihanouk sketched in areas in northeastern Cambodia, where he said the Pathet Lao have come in from Laos, and in the east and southeast where Vietnamese have crossed over.

He pointed out frontier areas of four provinces—Kampuchea, Kratie, Mondulkiri and Ratanakiri—covering a stretch of about 150 miles where he said there was Communist implantation. American intelligence also puts forces that are under Communist direction in frontier areas of the other five Cambodian provinces bordering South Vietnam's delta and this is no longer seriously disputed here.

Government sources said they are fully aware of the military units, their exact locations and their numbers, but these details are considered military secrets.

The regions pointed out by Sihanouk are very sparsely populated, mainly by mountain tribesmen who differ ethnically from the Cambodians.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actresses Margaret O'Brien, Brenda Scott and Irish McCalla have been granted divorces.

Miss O'Brien, 31, the former child star, testified she and her husband of nine years, advertising executive Harold Robert Allen Jr., 33, "argued over my being an actress and having money and it made me very nervous." She said Monday she plans to continue her career and waived alimony. They had no children. It was the first marriage for both.

Miss Scott, 25, saying "I want children and my husband does not," divorced actor Andy Prine, 33. Under a settlement Prine will pay her 10 per cent of his income for two years and pay a $1,000 balance owing on her mink coat.

Miss McCalla, 40, said her marriage to actor John Patrick Horgan, 39, broke up because she refused to vote for Eldridge Cleaver, the Peace and Freedom party candidate for president. She said Horgan told her "he couldn't be married to anyone so stupid."

Setting alimony at $2,500 to be paid over five months, Judge A. A. Scott said "the sooner you get rid of him the better," and granted the decree.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Mickey Rooney will pay $600 a month for support and medical expenses of his four children by the late Barbara Ann Rooney.

Mrs. Rooney, 29, was slain in 1966 by a Yugoslavian actor, Milos Milosevic, 25, who then committed suicide.

The four children have been living with their mother's parents, Mrs. and Mrs. Donald Thomason, who petitioned last September for full guardianship. Under a court order Monday, the children will live with the Thomasons, but Rooney will be co-guardian.

Survivor of Crash Gets Her License

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Lickteig, 31, the only survivor of a helicopter-plane collision over the city last week, got her private pilot's license Monday in her hospital room.

Mrs. Lickteig, of Greeley, Kan., was a student pilot in the light plane.

Killed in the crash were her instructor and two men in the helicopter.

Merrill Cornell of the Federal Aviation Administration said Mrs. Lickteig had passed her flight test and at the time of the crash was flying to Fairfax Airport to turn in her papers for the license.

Cornell and Edward W. Llis, air safety investigator, presented the license to Mrs. Lickteig.

Sihanouk complained that the Americans do not bomb these regions, where there are no Cambodians but do bomb the "duck's bill" where the Khmer population is very dense."

This was a reference to Svay Rieng Province, also called the "parrot's beak," which protrudes into South Vietnam in the direction of Saigon. American B52 bombers often fly raids in this region of South Vietnam because of military actions which create a threat to Saigon. There have been numerous border incidents and Cambodians have been killed.

By wondering out loud why the Americans don't bomb forces farther to the north in Cambodia, Sihanouk, some observers here feel, has approached an open invitation to the Americans to come in with planes or raiding parties. "The prince could never openly encourage the Americans to invade his own country," one diplomat said, "and he probably would make a pro forma protest if they did, but in the end he would be pleased."

Why doesn't the prince drive out his unwelcome visitors himself? His army of some 30,000-35,000 just isn't big enough.

Sihanouk's problem with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces is only part of his concern about the Vietnamese now and for the future. Government sources say about a half million Vietnamese live among Cambodia's seven million people. They are scattered over much of the country, but mainly around the lake area in west central Cambodia. They refuse to integrate with the Cambodians and lend themselves to recruitment and other pressures by Communist agents, the sources say.

Should the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese make an overt effort to overrun Cambodia, they would have built in fifth column support, these sources add.

The Sky's the Limit...

"Tomorrow's cities can be designed to provide much greater efficiency, much greater joy and delight than people have any notion of."

The statement was one of many in a months-long roundtable discussion by 33 urban experts on questions concerning American cities of the future.

With urban population expected to reach nearly 300 million by the turn of the century, the panel observed, a vast overhaul of the entire urban scheme is long overdue. It must be an overhaul of attitudes as well as structural and political makeup.

Man, it would appear, may have made the jump from rural to urban life too abruptly. The rush to the suburbs by the financially able seems to indicate his personal living tastes were not ready for the clustered life that has evolved from his commercial and industrial prowess.

His inability to cope effectively with his own refuse in air and water and on land shows he was not technologically prepared either. And an attitude of unconcern for his cohabitants in the metropolis casts serious doubt as to whether he is even psychologically adjusted to high density living.

Basically gregarious, he enjoys company, but is galled by an incessant crowd. Unlike bees, ants and lemmings, he wants others of his species near, but not too near. His familiarity seems to breed not only contempt, but callousness, resulting in the phenomenon of the "don't-want-to-get-involved" syndrome even when someone is being killed.

Recognizing this problem, city planners have decided there is nowhere to go but up. They foresee more vertical buildings, utilizing the area saved as open spaces where the individual can attain some degree of solitude easily and regularly.

We may live like bees 30 years from now, but at least we should have hives with elbow room.

—O—

You Don't Dig It?

What's new in Washington?

Well, here's a hot flash from the capital:

"Action-oriented orchestration of innovative inputs, generated by escalation of meaningful indigenous decision-making dialogue, focusing on multilinked problem-complexes, can maximize the vital thrust toward a non-alienated and viable urban infra-structure."

Any questions?

If, perchance, you wish to know more about this fascinating subject, write to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development — known to its intimates as plain old HUD.

Some bright young men in HUD — maybe the very one who knocked out this very message for HUD — will sadly shake his action-oriented head, mourn the low level of public intelligence, and wonder what a guy has to do to make himself understood these days.

Ray 'Conspiracy' Talk is Phony

On Sept. 9, Jack Anderson reported that a hidden microphone, planted by NBC, was found in a hotel room where the Democratic platform committee was holding its closed-door deliberations.

On Oct. 30, Pearson and Anderson further reported that 'NBC producer Enid Roth, who allegedly placed the mike under a pillow on a sofa in the committee room, has been selected as the scapegoat and will be indicted. This marks the first time in history that the government has cracked down on the high-handed operations of the networks.'

On March 20, a federal grand jury in Chicago indicted Miss Roth.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Despite James Earl Ray's courtroom hint that others helped to plot the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., the FBI's painstaking, $3.5 million investigation of the shooting produced absolutely no evidence of a conspiracy.

This column has checked carefully into all the conspiracy angles. I even flew to Los Angeles to investigate a dentist who was reported to have a grudge against Dr. King and might have hired Ray to gun down the Negro leader. Here are the conclusions:

1. Ray was a racist with a long record of crime and hate. He made no secret in prison of his burning hatred for Negroes. He even refused to go to the prison's honor farm because he would have to work alongside blacks. He also boasted to fellow convicts that he would kill Dr. King when he got out of prison.

2. Ray flew to Los Angeles around Easter Sunday, 1967, because he had heard Dr. King was scheduled to speak there. Ray did not contact the Los Angeles dentist and the FBI quickly dropped its suspicions of the dentist. Ray continued to stalk Dr. King until the tragic day in Memphis.

3. Ray's hints that he was aided by conspirators apparently were motivated by a psychotic notion that he could invent a couple of non-existent persons and blame them for the actual shooting, thus avoiding the death penalty.

4. Ray spoke mysteriously, for example, of meeting a blond man by the name of "Raoul" in a New Orleans bar. Later this same mystery man was supposed to have turned up in Montreal while Ray was there. The FBI could find no evidence that "Raoul" ever existed outside of Ray's imagination.

5. The fact that Ray seemed to have plenty of cash caused the FBI to suspect at first that he may have collected a pay-off from someone who wanted Dr. King dead. The FBI was able to trace Ray's money back to profits from smuggling narcotics into prison, and to a series of holdups. He staged at least two robberies in this country, two in Canada, one in London and one in Portugal.

6. Although Ray bungled the shooting by leaving clues that easily would have convicted him, he had a twisted cunning that enabled him to throw the FBI off his track while he escaped the country. There is no evidence to support the rumor that the alleged conspirators hustled him off to Europe.

Clearly, James Earl Ray loves the limelight, and he can be expected to make statements that will keep his name in the newspapers. Those who know him say he almost looked forward to returning to prison as a celebrity.

Note: The whispers of conspiracy, however, continue to circulate. They have been spread in part by Dr. King's former associates in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, who have found it easier to raise money with the conspiracy talk in the air.

—LBJ's Budget—

The story can now be told of Lyndon Johnson's New Year's resolution to chop another $8 billion off his budget.

He invited Nixon's Secretary of the Treasury, David Kennedy, to the LBJ Ranch on New Year's Eve to discuss the plan, which would have called for drastic cuts in such government programs as farm subsidies. However, these programs are established by law and cannot be reduced without getting special legislation from Congress.

Kennedy agreed to use his influence with Nixon to continue the surtax, so Johnson could leave the White House with a budget surplus. Kennedy flatly refused, however, to condone budget cuts that were contrary to the existing laws.

He warned bluntly that he would have to blast these cuts if LBJ tried to claim them as part of his final budget. The former President desperately wanted to electrify the nation by leaving a record budget surplus. But the mild-mannered Kennedy wouldn't let him get away with it.

—Nixon as an Executive—

A work pattern is gradually emerging for President Nixon. During his first two months in the White House, he issued more than 30 directives to department heads demanding answers to controversial questions.

He ordered Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird to report back on what to do about the anti-ballistic missile system and how to get rid of the draft, asked Secretary of HEW Robert Finch for reports on the rising costs of Medicare and Southern compliance with the school desegregation law.

From Attorney General John Mitchell, Nixon sought a report on how to reform the electoral college system.

He also requested recommendations on several other issues such as continuing the income surtax, reorganizing the antipoverty program, handling air traffic congestion and fighting crime. The directives were routed through Arthur Burns, who appears to be emerging as Nixon's chief of staff. Unlike former President Eisenhower, who wanted to see only the majority views of his subordinates, Nixon wants to see all the minority reports as well.

THE ROANOKE (Va.) TIMES: A tiresome Trend. — It was inevitable, we suppose. Nothing else is free these days, so why should motorists get free air from the neighborhood service station? The answer, according to one oil company, is that they shouldn't.

Instead of giving away air, they've hit upon a scheme for selling nitrogen for use in inflating tires: $1 per one-tire fill-up; $3 for purging a tire of unglamorous, outmoded air. Researchers, we're told, think nitrogen-filled tires will last longer. Maybe so, but we suspect it's all part of a sinister plot to eliminate the last vestiges of gas station courtesy services.

Next thing you know, road maps will cost a quarter. The kids' once-an-hour rest room stop will cost 10 cents a head, in a manner of speaking. Instead of gas price wars, we can expect double-stamp days for purchasers of 15-cent window-washing services. You say you want your oil checked, Mac? That'll be 20 cents, please. Plus tax.

"He Seems Surprised We Speak English!"

Nixon Hard Put to Find Places to Prune Spending

By BRUCE BROSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Only the most ruthless expense-cutting proposals are going to give President Nixon any hope of offering 1970 budget estimates lower than the $195.3 billion bequeathed to him by Lyndon Johnson.

With the new administration's own preliminary budget review completed, the prospect of really major spending reductions is virtually gone. Indeed, Nixon may find himself fortunate if he is ultimately able to match the Johnson figures.

When budgets are being made up, "first submissions" by the departments and agencies are almost inevitably a good deal higher than the final figures settled upon by the President and the Budget Bureau.

If Nixon had any thought that his "second scrutiny" of the federal establishment, ordered quickly after he assumed office, would produce pared-down estimates, he has abandoned the notion. The preliminary soundings add to a total higher than Johnson's budget.

For the next few weeks, therefore, an intensive struggle at the highest administration levels will be required to get the new estimates down and allow the President to go before the country with a workable and politically acceptable budget offering.

It is a safe judgment that the swollen Department of Health, Education and Welfare accounts for part of the problem, with constantly rising welfare and health care costs, and that the Housing and Urban Development Department may also be a troublesome factor.

In the end, however, the Defense Department's prospective outlays for the year starting July 1 may be the most unmanageable item of all.

The President has just announced his intent to seek rises in military pay which would add $1.2 billion to the budget beyond Johnson's calculations in this field. This move is closely connected to his wish to encourage heavier volunteer enlistments as a step away from the draft and toward a volunteer army.

But the big incalculable in Defense is the war in Vietnam. Nixon, upon returning from Europe, told the nation he would have to respond in some way if the enemy's stepped-up offensive in South Vietnam continued unabated.

No hint is yet being given as to what form that response would take, nor can there be any way of knowing what effect it would have upon the Paris peace talks and the scale and character of the fighting.

Still, it is known that the U.S. military currently is living off its supply inventory—materials already stockpiled in Vietnam, or in the pipeline en route—and cannot do so indefinitely.

Any long continuance of the war, either at present levels or just modestly higher pace, would compel costly replenishing of material stocks which could gravely upset budget calculations.

Aside from all the other concerns that the war involves, the economic factor is a potent one. Coupled with the built-in expense escalations in HEW and HUD, serious further advances in defense spending could have dangerous impact upon the economy.

We are in the longest boom period in modern U.S. history, eight years and still going. But for the last few years, the gains have been markedly flawed by a steadily more-menacing inflation.

The Nixon budget prospect, rendered inescapably uncertain by the imponderables of war and urban chaos, offers no bright indication that the inflationary spiral can be brought under easy or quick control. Government expenditures in the upcoming fiscal year may, in fact, fuel the inflationary fires more than ever.

Altogether, even if Congress steps in and tries to force extra spending cuts upon the White House, the economic outlook is ominous and the chances for a wipe-out or slash in the 10 per cent income tax surcharge increasingly dim.

In the last dozen years standard American bidders have strengthened the two-over-one response in a lower-valued suit to where it guarantees nine or 10 high card points and shows 11 unless the hand is very unbalanced.

Some players guarantee to make a follow-up bid irrespective of what opener does at his second turn.

We don't go this far. If opener rebids two of his suit we reserve the right to pass. If he bids anything else, except game, we promise to bid once more.

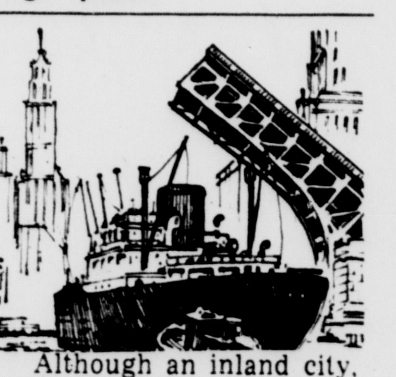

This makes it possible for opener to rebid in a new suit and be sure of response. It also makes it possible for opener to jump in a new suit with a fragment bid that agrees on partner's suit for the final trump.

North's jump to four clubs is a fragment bid. It says, "Partner, hearts is our suit. I have a singleton club and want to play this hand in a heart game or slam."

South had only 11 high-card points for his two-heart call but the fragment bid told him that all his high cards would be working. He went right into Blackwood and settled for six when he found a missing ace.

West opened the king of clubs and shifted to a diamond. South studied the hand for some time. Almost any line of play will succeed but South wasn't looking at the East and West cards. The line he adopted looks mighty good to us.

He won the diamond in his hand and ruffed a club small. Then he led dummy's ace of hearts. Both opponents followed, so he led a low trump to his hand, ruffed another club with the jack of hearts, entered his hand with the queen of spades, drew trumps and claimed his contract since he could discard his last club on a high spade.

Ah, Yes, House-Cleaning

No matter how we explain that spring cleaning is a thing of the past, rumors keep going around about women starting on rug-shaking and soft-airing binges. For the benefit of those who are new to house-keeping and are thinking about indulging in this ancient sport, a bit of review seems to be in order.

Just for background, this urge to stir up dust is oftentimes referred to as "the nesting instinct." Actually, it might be more interesting and much easier to build a real nest and if you are not absolutely sure you want to get into the house-cleaning cycle, you might collect a few bits of string and yarn and try your hand at it. Besides string and yarn, you'll need wisps of grass or straw which you could easily acquire by tearing apart your whisk broom. Robins and larks sometimes do terrific things with soda straws. Soda straws are easily found in your back yard or wherever your children throw them.

If you are still determined about wood-work, we'll get on with it. First, think of your budget. Some families do things differently, but really there is an unwritten rule saying that major purchases (a new roof or garage) are bought with special savings while anything else will be deducted from the grocery money. Bear this in mind before painting all the bedrooms. You'll be eating spaghetti for weeks to pay for the new living room slipcovers. Painting all the bedrooms means bean soup.

Are you sure you want to go through with this? All right. The most efficient way of cleaning house is to call a house-cleaning service. Your call will bring a staff of well-trained, bright-eyed workmen to your house and in no time they will have everything sparkly and shiny. They will want money when they finish. Therefore, if you ARE going to insist upon the most efficient and effective way, then you must also know it means settling for LOTS of spaghetti and bean soup.

There is another way to clean house. You start in one room, then go on to the next and the next and the next. While on tour you dust, polish, vacuum or wash and iron every object that doesn't run when you approach it. If it can run, tell it to buy its lunch at the drive-in.

To work without interruption, keep all moving objects out of the house. One way of accomplishing this is by neatly printing a sign and hanging it on the front door. If you print SMALLPOX or TYPHOID, you'll have about three weeks to yourself.

If you do not want to clean house at all—ever—then you'll appreciate the following information. Everybody loves good cooks and artists and no matter how many dust curls these women have around their house, they are forgiven.

The artist escape route is managed by keeping tubes of oils on the coffee table, a canvas propped against the fireplace and a jar of brushes on top of the piano. Wearing a paint-daubed smock adds authenticity as well as covering your nightgown.

Erecting a good cook facade is more complicated. An arrangement of garlic, parsley and walnut meats on a chopping board is essential. Leave a stalk of celery out—you'll need it to wave around when answering the door. In emergencies a celery stalk also makes a dandy bookmark.

Walking Drugstore Award Is Dubious Attainment

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — I was recently hospitalized for miner's asthma and I am now taking the following drugs: meprobamate, tetracycline, brompheniramine, isoniazid and prednisone. What are they for and what are the side effects?

A — You win the 1967 Walking Drugstore Award. When do you find time for anything else? Meprobamate is a tranquilizer, tetracycline is an antibiotic, brompheniramine is an antihistamine used to treat asthma and other allergic diseases, isoniazid is used to treat tuberculosis and prednisone is a drug of the corticosteroid group used to combat inflammation. The side effects of this quintet could cover just about any symptom you would care to mention. If you have any unpleasant symptoms while taking these drugs, report them to your doctor and perhaps he will decrease the dosage of one of them — or, better yet, discontinue it.

Q — Can a person take too much medication? My doctor has me taking Duotrate, Bardase, thyroid extract and Premarin. I am in my early 50s. I don't feel very good and I haven't got much pep.

A — You get the second prize in this competition. Yes, you can take too much of any given drug and you can take too many different kinds. Sometimes the effect one drug neutralizes or interferes with the effect of another.

Pentaerythritol tetranitrate (Duotrate) is given to relieve attacks of angina pectoris. Bardase is a combination of belladonna and phenobarbital given to relieve spasm in the digestive tract and aid in the digestion of starches. Thyroid extract and conjugated estrogens (Pemarlin) are hormonal replacements. Are you getting enough sleep? Are you getting a balanced diet? Are you wearing yourself out worrying about things? (Are you worrying more and enjoying it less?)

There are many causes for a feeling of general peeplessness.

Q — What are these medicines for: Valium, Tofranil and Librium?

A — With only three drugs to keep track of, you get the consolation prize. Diazepam (Valium) is a minor tranquilizer, imipramine (Tofranil) is an antidepressant and chlorazepoxide (Librium) is a major tranquilizer. I sincerely hope you are not taking all three drugs at once.

Just One of Those Things

It's a man's world, all right. We hear a lot of criticism of the wife who drives from the back seat, but very little about the husband who cooks from the dining room table.

Sirhan 'Programmed' Assassination Plot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "He was gradually programming himself exactly like a computer is programmed by its magnetic tape, programming himself for the coming assassination."

"He was confused, bewildered and partially intoxicated. The mirrors in the hotel lobby, the flashing lights, the general confusion—this was like pressing the button which starts the computer."

In this setting, a psychiatrist says, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy came under the gun of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan—a robot killer in a self-induced trance; an unknown instrument of assassination.

"It is my opinion that through chance, circumstances, and a succession of unrelated events, Sirhan found himself in the physical situation in which the assassination occurred," Dr. Bernard L. Diamond said Monday at Sirhan's murder trial. The shooting was in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel.

The portrayal of a computerized killer was a stunning summary of Diamond's eight examinations of Sirhan in his jail cell—including a frenetic re-enactment by a hypnotized Sirhan of the moment he shot the senator from New York.

Diamond, 65, a professor of psychiatry, law and criminology at the University of California at Berkeley, was to return to the stand today.

"I agree that this is an absurd and preposterous story, unlikely and incredible," Diamond said, his face turned to the jury. "The crime itself was a tragically absurd and preposterous event, unlikely and incredible."

The tragedy was ordained, Diamond said, with Sirhan's exposure to violence and death in Jerusalem in 1948 when his family—Arabs—became refugees in the partition of Palestine and establishment of Israel as a Jewish homeland.

His mental illness developed as he grew older "and his fanatical hatred and fear of the Jews increased with each radio and television broadcast concerning the tension in the Middle East."

Sirhan began courses in self hypnosis and mind power, practiced diligently.

"He actually believed," Diamond said, "that he could stop the bombers from reaching Israel and thereby save the Arabs—simply by willing the death of all who would help the Jews." Kennedy, campaigning for the democratic presidential nomination, had promised fighter bombers to Israel if elected.

Sirhan became convinced he was losing his mind, Diamond said.

"He sought the remedy in his books on mysticism and the occult and he daydreamed of the power of his gun, taking every opportunity on many different days to shoot it, firing hundreds and hundreds of shots as if each shot would somehow make up for his ever growing sense of helplessness, impotence and fear of loss of self control."

Sirhan wrote his murderous thoughts into his diaries while said, and was in the same kind of trance that night in the Ambassador.

"Only this time it was for real and this time there was no pencil in his hand. This time there was only the loaded gun."

"I am satisfied that he had not consciously planned to be in that situation. I am satisfied that if he had been fully conscious and in his usual mental state he would have been quite harmless, despite his paranoid hatreds and despite his loaded gun."

As the gray-haired psychiatrist testified, Sirhan doodled on paper in front of him—but obviously paying attention. At one point, the pale young defendant hit his head with his hand—as if to evoke a memory.

Sirhan, the psychiatrist said does not believe he is mentally ill. He would "rather believe that he is the fanatical martyr who by his noble act of self-sacrifice has saved his people and become a great hero. He claims to be ready to die in the gas chamber for the glory of the Arab people."

But, Diamond said, Sirhan is "small and helpless, pitifully ill with a demented psychotic rage, out of control of his own consciousness and his own actions, subject to bizarre dissociated trances in some of which he programmed himself to be the instrument of assassination, and then, in an almost accidentally induced twilight state he actually executed the crime, knowing next to nothing as to what was happening."

Then Diamond leaned back in his chair, glanced at Sirhan, and said: "I am satisfied that this is how Sirhan Bishara Sirhan came to kill Sen. Robert F. Kennedy on June 5, 1968."

Complete First Leg of Air Race

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A mother of seven from Wichita, Kan., Mrs. Patricia McEwen, and her co-pilot, a youthful grandmother, Mrs. Arlene Walk-up from Stillwater, Okla., were the first to arrive in San Antonio on the first leg of the Angel Derby's 19th International Air Race Monday.

A total of 62 women in 33 light planes took to the air from New Orleans. No mishaps were reported although most encountered high winds.

After refueling in San Antonio they embarked for Monterrey, Mexico.

Argument Over Trip by a Bus

PITTSFIELD, Maine (AP)—The six member Pease family right now is living in what might be called "Nowhere-ville."

Their home is on a 16-acre tract which was once part of the town of Hartland, but was transferred to Pittsfield by legislative decision 116 years ago.

Pittsfield's town meeting this month voted to return the tract to Hartland.

Hartland doesn't want it back. The town of Pittsfield became disenchanted with the annex when the Pease family moved in and the town had to send a school bus eight miles out to pick up the one school-age Pease child. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pease have three other children nearing school age.

ers set punishments for those found guilty of disrupting the orderly process of education.

Dr. John C. Weaver, president, University of Missouri, told the committee the resolution adhered to lines of policy he had made known last year and again in February against violent dissent.

"Freedom of dissent is a basic freedom of all Americans," Weaver said, "and it must be protected." But, he said, "the university will not tolerate disruption under the guise of protection of freedom."

He and other school officials reiterated that channels of communications are always open to students. Many of the students testified to that, too.

Prince, 26, majoring in education at MSC, said:

"It would be more to the point at hand if the members of this committee would include in this resolution, the hope that truly concerned college administrators would include the student in the affairs of their education."

Noting his opposition to violence, Prince concluded:

"If the student is ever to gain a larger say in his education, it will be by logical presentation of his arguments to groups such as this; not by acts of violence aimed at disrupting the pursuit of education."

The measure was introduced by Sen. John Ryan, R-Sedalia, with several other senators backing his move.

David Thomas, president of the Student Council at the University of Missouri - Columbia, summed up his favorable testimony by saying he thought there were some problems but not ones that couldn't be worked out.

He said those who advocate giving students a controlling voice in the administration of colleges and universities are sort of like a dog chasing a car.

"The dog wouldn't know what to do with it if he caught the car," Thomas said, "neither would the student know what to do if he got all he wanted from the school administrators."

Haircut is Part Of His Punishment

OWOSSO, Mich. (AP) — A 17-year-old rock and roll bandman was ordered to get his shoulder-length hair cut Monday as part of a two-year probation stemming from a marijuana conviction.

Kearney Fitzpatrick appeared upset by the condition, but thanked Circuit Judge Michael Carland for placing him on probation and said he would make plans to buy a wig for use during band appearances.

In addition to the probation, the youngster was ordered to pay $100 court costs.

Synagogue President Takes a New Course

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The white paint on the walls and the swastika on the front door will stay, says the 78-year-old president of a South Philadelphia synagogue harassed recently by teen-age vandals.

William Hamot said the paint sashed on Saturday was just the latest in a series of acts of vandalism that has included broken windows and the stuffing of burning paper in the building's mail chute.

"We are not going to remove it," he said referring to the paint. "We are going to let it stay. I'm not ashamed of it. Let the parents see it and maybe they'll do something."

Palm Supply Reduced By Labor Shortage

MIMS, Fla. (AP) — Many Palm Sunday worshippers will have to do so without the traditional palm fronds because of a labor shortage, a major supplier says.

"Some churches are going to look pretty bleak" next Sunday, said Ralph Higginbotham, operator of Florida Palms. "They're going to wonder what happened to them."

"It's mainly labor," he said Monday. "The people that used to cut them have quit. It's not that they can't make the money. It's a little harder work than some other jobs."

Palm fronds are lopped by ax off stumpy sabal palms—Florida's state tree—or cut from towering trees by workmen wielding 30-foot poles topped by razor-sharp blades.

Many florists and church supply houses around the country have reported they're unable to fill palm frond orders. J. F. Grottenbeck and Sons of Baltimore said it has received only 4,000 fronds and usually distributes 25,000.

Higginbotham said he will fall about 175,000 fronds short of the 1.5 million that were ordered.

The shortage in palm fronds will cause some churches to vary their traditional observance of Palm Sunday.

Burial Site Causes Priestly Protests

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "What does the black community think of us?" asked six Roman Catholic priests in protesting the burial of segregationist Leander H. Perez Sr. from a Catholic church.

The objection came to light Monday when Archbishop Philip M. Hannan said Perez, excommunicated from the Catholic church in 1962, received absolution from the censure after a "public statement accepting and supporting the authority of the church ... made publicly over a year ago."

Perez died last Wednesday night at his plantation south of here in oil-rich Plaquemine Parish, which he controlled for nearly a half century. His excommunication stemmed from his blocking the opening of a Plaquemine parochial school which had admitted Negroes.

A requiem mass for the 77-year-old political leader who the six priests called "the leading racist of the South" was conducted Friday at Holy Name of Jesus Church on the campus of Loyola University.

Burial, with two Catholic priests conducting the rites, followed in a private mausoleum at Perez' Idlewild Plantation.

"In all candor, we consider the event a disgrace," wrote the six priests—five of them theology professors at Catholic universities here.

The letter to the archbishop from the priests was dated Friday, the same day Perez was buried. It was released Monday night by the archbishop along with his own statement.

Archbishop Hannan, who had disclosed Perez' reconciliation with the church on the eve of the funeral, said in his statement that the fact Perez "public statement accepting and supporting the authority of the church ... was not reported by the press does not affect the case and is a matter of the freedom of judgment of the press."

The priests' letter called the reconciliation "a mere legalism" and said Perez could not "make up for a public insult by some private prayers or token penance."

Recorders Employed By Police

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — City policemen on duty in crime-prone areas are experimenting with portable tape recorders to take down statements from witnesses to wrongdoing or traffic accidents.

Announcing this Monday, Police Inspector Frank A. Spallina said the recorders also would come in handy in case of disputes involving officers.

So far, 20 recorders have been issued. If they work out as expected, the $220 machines will become standard police equipment.

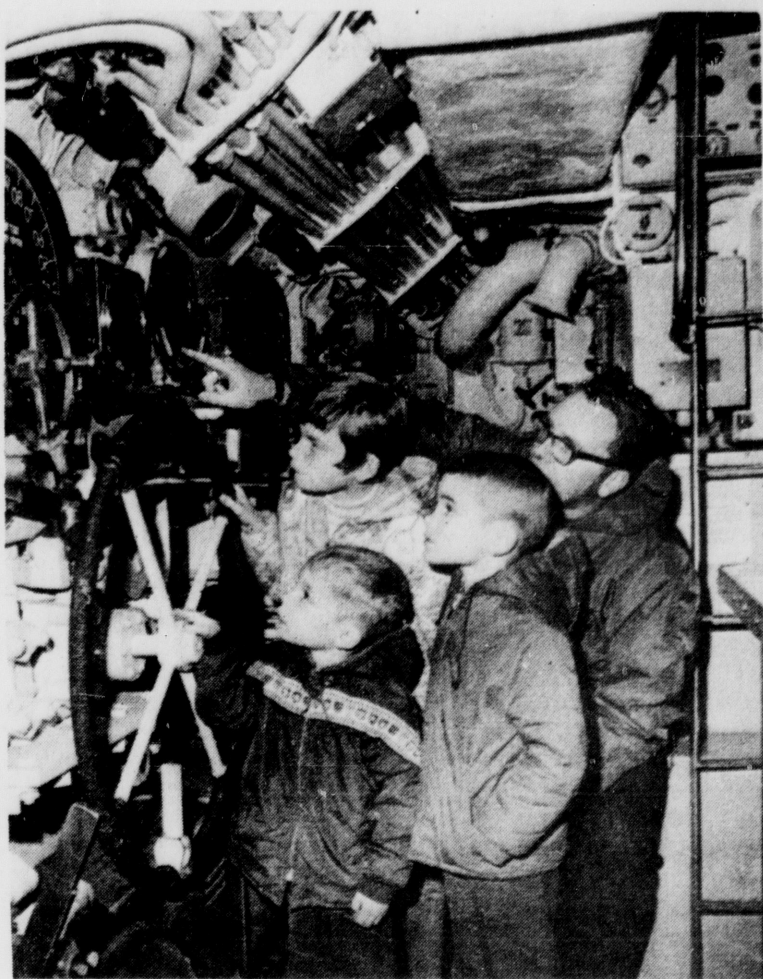

The recorders measure 8 by 12 inches and are carried under an officer's jacket by a sling reaching around his neck. Each machine carries one hour's tape and is activated by pressing a button.

Spallina said the recorders will be a protection both for the witness and the policeman. And he said the officers will be more courteous and careful in their remarks when they know their voices are being recorded.

Witnesses' statements will be transcribed by police stenographers, then taken to the witnesses' homes to be signed.

Officers' reaction to the machines has been generally favorable during the two weeks the test has been in progress. They say the slings are about as comfortable as a shoulder holster.

Spallina said the department also is considering installing a tape recorder in the city jail with microphones in each cell to forestall or confirm charges of police brutality to persons in detention.

Advice on College Disorder

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Legislature should back school officials to the hilt but also beware of the tyrannical college administrator who might try to advance his own despotic aims.

That was the advice given a Senate committee Monday night studying the lines between dissent and destruction on college campuses. The committee took up a resolution seeking to put the legislature on record supporting any necessary moves by college or university officials in putting down disruptive activities on their campuses.

John (Jeb) Prince of Joplin, president of the Missouri Southern College student body, told the committee he feared the resolution might become a vehicle for unjust officials to further their own selfish cause.

Prince and 25 other witnesses testified on the proposed resolution. Then Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, chairman, appointed a subcommittee to re-draft the proposal and take out language that had been objected to.

The subcommittee includes Sens. A. Basye Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, John J. Johnson, D-Sappington, and Jack Curtis, R-Springfield.

Most of the witnesses favored the measure in principle. They included officials of the University of Missouri, Lincoln University in Jefferson City, and the five state colleges.

But there was opposition. Alan Katz, 21, a student at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, accused present school governing bodies of being "undemocratic, oppressive" and "autocratic."

He said the resolution abounded in "meaningless cliches."

Others said they thought the resolution was uncalled for and that it might hurt rather than help the cause of those earnestly seeking an education.

Testimony also crept in in opposition to legislation pending in the House. Several measures have been introduced seeking to curtail violent dissent on campuses in the state.

One would require students to sign an oath agreeing to abide by school rules. Another would prohibit teachers found guilty of felonies from teaching in any Missouri school and oth-

Underdog Jerry Quarry Batters Buster Mathis

NEW YORK (AP) — His trunks were shocking pink, not Kelly green, but Jerry Quarry's face is a map of Ireland and he fought big Buster Mathis as if he were using a shillelagh and not a pair of boxing gloves.

There also was a definite shamrock twinge to the crowd emotion as the throng of 15,076 roared approval at Quarry's slam-bang, almost defiant style and derided Mathis' inept performance in the 12-round heavyweight fight Monday night at Madison Square Garden.

The 23-year-old Bellflower, Calif., bomber a 12-5 underdog who was spotted the 6-foot-3, 234½ pound Mathis two inches in height and 38½ pounds, dominated the fight from the opening bell.

Quarry battered the head and body of the Grand Rapids, Mich., giant with heavy rights and lefts to the body and head, dropping Mathis to his right knee with a long right in the second round. Mathis got up at two and took the mandatory eight count.

Quarry showed complete disdain for Mathis' punching and even taunted him in the 11th round by dropping his hands to his sides and sticking out his jut jaw.

Judges Tony Castellano and Jack Gordon each awarded Mathis only the sixth round and called the seventh even. Referee Johnny Colan gave Mathis the fourth and sixth and called the fifth even. The Associated Press gave every round to Quarry.

The lopsided triumph probably earned Quarry a shot at Joe Frazier, the five-state heavyweight champion.

Then someone at a post-fight news conference asked him if he would fight Jimmy Ellis if the World Boxing Association champion offered him a match tomorrow.

"Yes," said Quarry who lost to Ellis in the final of the WBA elimination tournament to find a successor for the deposed Cassius Clay.

Harry Markson, the boss of Garden boxing, said, "We hope to make it (a Frazier-Quarry fight) in early summer. "It is the best possible fight in many years and it has the best money potential in many years."

Tuesday night's crowd, many of them New York Irish, which braved a heavy rain paid a gross of $167,293. Each fighter was guaranteed $50,000 again 25 per cent of the net receipts and television money.

Quarry now has won 32 and lost six, with four draws. Mathis, who was stopped by Frazier in 11 rounds is 29-2.

Lorenzo Trujillo Returns To Defend Gloves Title

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lorenzo Trujillo has considerably more confidence in his boxing ability in this year's National Golden Gloves Tournament.

But that's no reason to concede him a repeat championship, the stocky little battler said Monday night.

Trujillo is the only champion returning to defend his title in the 42nd national tourney, which opened Monday night with two rounds in the five lower weights.

Football Workouts Begin In Big Eight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring football practice opens next Monday for three Big Eight Conference schools, including Gator Bowl champion Missouri.

Coach Dan Devine's Tigers will be joined as the early-bird starters by Iowa State and Oklahoma State.

Co-champion Kansas will launch its spring drills April 5, while co-champion Oklahoma, Colorado and Kansas State get underway April 7. The last to start will be Nebraska, on April 13.

The teams are evenly divided on when they play their annual spring games—either intra-squad or alumni. Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State and Oklahoma State will play their games May 3, and the other four schools on May 10. Only Oklahoma and Colorado have alumni games.

At Missouri, Devine returns the hard core of his 1968 team, which bombed Alabama, 35-10, in the Gator Bowl after finishing third in the Big Eight. Back are such stalwarts as Mel Gray, James Harrison, Mark Kuhlman, Ron McBride, Terry McMillan, Tom Shroyock and Jay "Rocky" Wallace.

Top freshmen to be blended into the Tiger machine are running backs Charlie Barnes, Bill Mauser and Lorenzo Brinkley, quarterbacks Chuck Roper and Ricci Stotler and fullback Bill Mauser. Both Roper and Stotler are considered in the running at quarterback, where Devine already has McMillan, Garnett Phelps and Mike Farmer.

Pepper Rodgers' Kansas Jayhawks lost heavily, with Bobby Douglass, Junior Riggins, Donnie Shanklin, John Jackson, Mickey Doyle, Ken Wertberger, Keith Christensen, John Zook, Vernon Vanoy, Bill Hunt and Dave Morgan among those departed from last year's team, which lost 15-14 to Penn State in the Orange Bowl.

However, Rodgers has two stellar junior college transfers and at least a half-dozen stand-out freshmen with which to patch the holes.

The Jayhawk transfers are Steve Conley, 205-pound wing-back or defensive back from Arlington Heights, Ill., who may replace either Jackson at flanker or Morgan at safety; and Ron Jessie, the NCAA indoor long jump champion from Yuma, Ariz., who is a 185-pound tailback. Jessie won't be out for football this spring, competing in track instead.

Kansas' outstanding frosh are quarterback Phil Basler, tailback Jimmy Jukes, defensive end Gary Cooper and linebackers Steve Roach, Chuck Schmidt and Kenny Page.

Rodgers also is going to try switching split end George McGowan to safety this spring.

At Oklahoma, attention is centered on the varsity debut of freshman quarterback Jack Mildren, the all-everything prep star from Abilene, Tex., who could be the most celebrated Big Eight newcomer in years. Mildren gained 1,101 yards passing and rushing in four freshman games last fall—all OU victories.

Sooners' Coach Chuck Fairbanks also returns Steve Owens, the league's top offensive player last season along with Steve Zabel, Mike Harper, Ken Mendenhall, Steve Casteel and seven other regulars.

Oklahoma lost 28-27 to SMU in the Bluebonnet Bowl after quarterback Bob Warmack and Zabel left the game with injuries.

The first two rounds in the five heavier weights will be fought tonight, with the third round and quarterfinals set for Wednesday night and the semifinals and finals Thursday night.

"I've got more punch and more confidence this year," said Trujillo, a 20-year-old native of Edinburg, Tex., who helped Fort Worth win the 1968 national team championship but this year is fighting for Grand Rapids, Mich., at 125 pounds.

"But that doesn't mean I'm a cinch," Trujillo added. "When fight here, every fighter is a good one—the best from his area. That means you can meet somebody better than you at any time."

Trujillo, by his own count, has something like an 80-5 record since he started amateur boxing when he was eight years old. This is his third national Gloves meet.

The crowd likes him, because he pops into the ring before a fight in his silk robe with the letters "Boom Boom Trujillo" on the back. As he is announced the winner, he bows curtsy to the crowd.

He bowed victoriously twice Monday night, scoring a knock-out over Harry Montgomery of Indianapolis at 1:54 of the second round in his first fight, then posting a unanimous decision over Joe Bennett of Springfield, Ill., in the second round. Bennett bloodied his nose, however.

Trujillo's two victories were the only two points Grand Rapids scored in the lower weights.

Elizabeth, N.J., which advanced three of its five fighters into the third round, took the early team lead with seven points. Cleveland, with two fighters moving up to the third round in the five lower weights, was second with six points.

Host Kansas City, Omaha and Los Angeles were tied for third with five points each. Defending champion Fort Worth, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, Knoxville, Salt Lake City and Roswell, N. Mex., each had four.

Jahnke Advances

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Robert Jahnke of St. Paul, Minn., moved into sixth place Monday night in the regular singles standings of the 66th annual American Bowling Congress tournament with a 684 series.

S-C Miler Qualifies For Meet

The Smith-Cotton Tigers opened their 1969 track season Saturday at the Conference Indoor Track Meet at Brewer Field House in Columbia.

Bob Logan, junior, won second place honors in the mile with a clocking of 4:35.8. His time was just 2 of a second off the school outdoor record of 4:35.6 set by Don Vanderlinden in 1941. Last year Bob set the Jennie Jaynes Stadium record of 4:38.2. His mile run Saturday qualifies him for the State Indoor Meet this Saturday at Brewer Field House in Columbia.

Placing third was the mile relay team of Cooper, Doogs, Cain, and Hunt with a time of 3:44.1.

A throw of 46 feet netted Barry Barnes, senior, fourth place honors in the shotput and Paul Klover, sophomore, placed fourth with a 2:10.5 in the half mile.

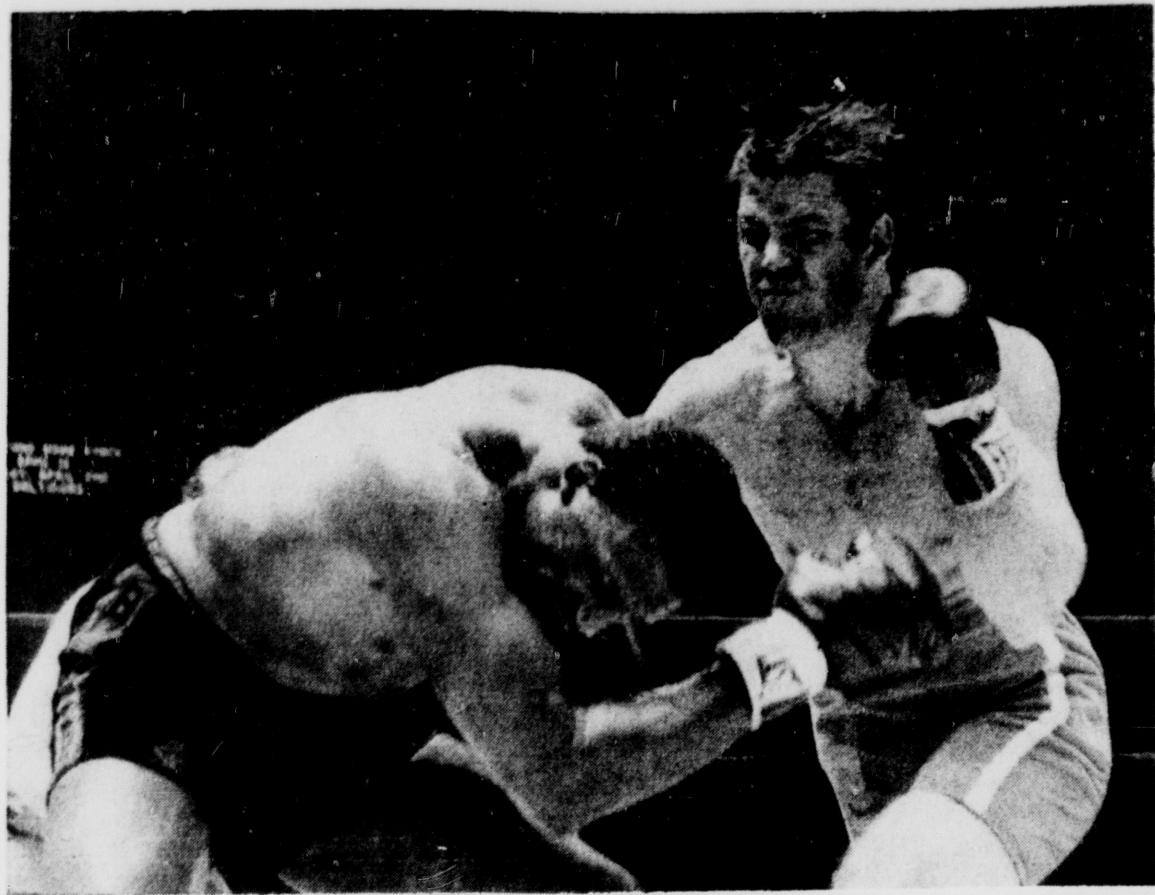

The overall points were:

Hannibal	76½
Columbia	48
Mexico	23
Jeff City	18
Sedalia	14½

Champ Dory Funk Will Wrestle Here

World championship wrestling is on tap at Convention Hall tonight when newly-crowned Dory Funk, Jr., makes his initial Sedalia appearance.

The talented 240-pound Texan will collide with one of the Midlands rowdiest heavyweights, tackling Tornado Murdock, in the best of three-falls feature of a four-event card.

Funk, who parlayed the spinning toehold, excellent speed and agility into a winning combination, took over as the world champ by turning back giant Gene Kiniski early last month in Tampa, Fla., before a crowd of 8,000.

For Kiniski, a towering belter who reigned for almost three years, it was a bitter blow. Funk maneuvered into position to apply his specialty — the toehold. The 275-pound champion quickly became an ex-champion.

The Great Mephistos, who made an impressive showing here last week, will have a chance at another talented twosome when they go against Rudy Martin and Ronnie Etchison. For that action, the disqualification rule will not be in effect.

Jolting Bob Brown, another brawler who has been effective in the Midlands, returns to Convention Hall to tangle with talented Bruce Kirk, one of the hottest young ring prospects in the area. Brown spent his time away from these parts wrestling on the West Coast and in his native Canada.

The 8:15 opener features Ronnie Etchison and one of the Mephistos.

Mizzou Tigers Statistics Account For New Marks

COLUMBIA — Coach Norm Stewart's second Missouri basketball team set new team and individual scoring records en route to a 14-11 seasonal ledger.

The Tigers, posting their best season since 1956, shot 48 percent from the field, improving on the 44.7 percent top grade logged by the Bengals last year.

Doug Johnson, 6-ft. 4 junior lefty, hit 54.1 percent of his field goal tries, scrubbing the old mark of 48.6, jointly held by Charlie Henke (1961) and Tom Johnson (1968).

Theo Franks, slender guard, also flirted with the single-season free throw record. His 86.7 percent completion mark (39 of 45) fell short of Ron Coleman's 87.3 record figure, set in 1967.

Don Tomlinson, leading Tiger scorer, upped his career scoring total to 829 points, good for tenth place on the Black and Gold's all-time tables, with one season to go. The rugged Bragg Citizen finished with 435 points this year, and a 17.4-point average.

Tomlinson also set an all-time mark this year in free throws made (165), and free throws attempted (250). The previous highs were recorded by Henke in 1960.

Defensively, Missouri's yield of 65.9 points a game was the Tigers' best defensive allowance since Sparky Stalcup's last Bengal team (1961-62) gave up 63.5 points to all comers.

The Missourians, losing only senior Tom Thoenen, return their first six scorers next season.

The New York Yankees led the American League in road attendance in 1968, playing before 1,354,276 fans.

NY Knicks Top League Attendance

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The New York Knicks are runaway leaders in pro basketball's attendance derby with 569,984 paid customers for 37 playing dates at Madison Square Garden.

That's an average of 15,404, or more than 75 per cent of the 19,500 capacity.

NBA teams hold down the first six places in the attendance figures—tallied unofficially through games of March 20. Los Angeles is runnerup with an average of 11,538.

Philadelphia is third with 10,133, Boston fourth with 8,910, Baltimore fifth with 7,556 and San Diego sixth at 6,047.

Indianapolis, hottest team in the rival American Basketball Association, ranks a surprising seventh with a total attendance of 228,826 for an average of 6,201.

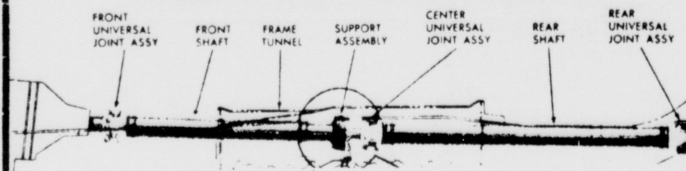

Indianapolis, under former Baltimore Coach Bobby Leonard, has come from last to first in the ABA's Eastern Division since Nov. 11 and has had four sellout crowds of more than 10,000 in the last six weeks.

Bill Justus, who led Tennessee's basketball team in point scoring the first half of the season, sank 52 of his first 57 foul shots.

Tracy's Back

KANSAS CITY—(NEA)—Tracy Stallard, who served up Roger Maris' 61st home run when he was pitching for the Boston Red Sox, will attempt a baseball comeback this season.

Alworth May Retire If John Hadl Quits

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Lance Alworth, the favorite target of John Hadl's passes the past seven years, may cut his pro football career short if Hadl leaves the San Diego Chargers next week.

"I think John's leaving definitely would have some effect on my decision," Alworth said Monday. "I'm definitely going to play this year, but after that depends on what happens."

"I feel like maybe I have four good years left. I want to play as long as I can. But I want to make my last years good ones, and the quarterback is going to have a bearing on whether I play or not."

Despite statements made by Gene Klein, president of the team, the Chargers have to hope Hadl will again be the quarterback this season.

But a week from today, Hadl becomes a free agent. He played out his option with the AFL team last season and on April 1 becomes eligible to make a deal for himself. Of course, he still can sign with the Chargers, but Alworth doesn't think he will.

"I'm sure he would have before," the AFL's pass-catching champion said in an interview. "But it's gotten to the point that now, since insults have been passed both ways, there's not much going for him here except the guys on the club."

"I don't think they'll resolve it. I've talked to John quite often, and he's said he'll come back to San Diego only if they give him what he wants. He'd like to play, but it's hard to play for someone who doesn't think you are worth much."

"I wish it hadn't happened. If it hadn't, we might have a good chance of signing him."

The Charger flanker referred to the recent exchange between Klein and Hadl.

"John is an excellent quarterback, but he's no Joe Namath," Klein was quoted as saying.

"I may not be as Joe Namath," Hadl retorted, "but Klein's no Sonny Werblin."

The quarterback and the president reached an impasse over Hadl's desire for a $250,000 loan to go with a three-year contract worth about $60,000 a year.

Now, Hadl is just waiting for next Tuesday.

"I don't think he'll do anything right away," said Alworth.

"I think he's waited a long time as it is. He doesn't have to hurry into it."

Cowboys Win

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Oklahoma State, the Big Eight title holder, crushed WAC champion Utah 31-12 in a dual wrestling meet Monday night.

OSU's heavy victory over the Western Athletic Conference titleholder sends OSU into the NCAA meet beginning Thursday in Provo as a strong favorite to again cop the national title.

OSU, which has won 26 of 38 NCAA championships, scored three pins to Utah's one and out-pointed Utah 4-1. Two matches ended in draws.

Welcome NEWCOMERS

We're happy to welcome you as neighbors and friends to Sedalia, Queen City of the Prairies, Conveniently located in the middle of the state and nation, Sedalia's history dates back to 1860. Times have changed since then, but the neighborly charm down through the years has earned Sedalia the nickname of "the friendly city."

Almost every religious faith is represented. Public and parochial school systems provide a fine atmosphere for learning. Our own Pettis County and neighboring Benton County can justifiably be proud of State Fair Community College, Missouri's newest Junior College system.

Historical sites, recreational facilities give area residents a never-ending list of places to see and things to do. Sedalia is a fine place to live, to work and to develop new friends and acquaintances.
